Drought Preparedness (Session 1, Registration: 8:00 - 8:15am, Class: 8:15 - 11:15am):

- The course will review different types of drought and their impacts, and provide a summary of statewide and regional water conditions. It will also cover:
- Emergency plans required for SDWA compliance, technical, managerial, and financial capacity, and the drought planning process.
- Challenges faced by small water systems and tribes, and the resources and solutions available to address them.
- Different types of water conservation planning with information based on your water system needs and capabilities.
- Tools and public education materials available to systems implementing a conservation plan.

Emergency Response (Session 2, Registration: 12:00 - 12:15pm, Class: 12:15 - 3:15pm):

- Did you know that most public water systems are required to develop an Emergency Response Plan?
- This course will cover the procedures and documents required by the state and funding agencies utilized in emergency response.
- You will receive instruction on how to educate the public about emergency response as it relates to the water system.
